Directions for Use

- Project one of the pictures in this resource. You can do this on an ActivBoard for the entire class, or project on an individual computer to make this a center activity for individual students or small groups.
- Tell students they are going to write a story for the picture. You can tell them how many sentences they will write (check out the three response sheet options within this resource), or students can write freely. It's up to you how many parameters you set!
- Here are a few options for using this resource:
 - Do these on those days where you are short on time (late start, early out, school pictures, etc.) and can't do a full writing lesson. (A little writing is better than no writing!)
 - Complete a picture (or two or three!) on the days when your students are out of focus. Some days – if you can't beat em, join em! 😊
 - Use these during writing centers! Make it a competition to see how many great stories each student can write.
 - Find all of my WRITING DOWNLOADS here.

You can get even more ideas for using this resource and see how I used other picture writing prompts at this blog post.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

My name is Heather. I'm a certified elementary and special education teacher in the state of South Dakota. I am also certified to be a K-12 Reading Specialist or Principal.

My classroom experience has ranged from preK-6th grade. I've taught everything from a regular gen ed classroom to inclusion special education to Reading Recovery to a multi-grade classroom of ELL students.

All of these varied experiences have given me a chance to really see that teaching is all about "fun, engaged, impactful relationships & learning". (This has also become my blogging mantra!) Treat students with respect and they will do almost anything for you! Once you've built the relationships, the learning will come.

After seven years in the classroom I become a K-6 principal at two schools and K-12 district special education director. I'm now home caring for our two children and working online. I miss the students and staff, but I love still having my hands in education through my online endeavors.

If you have any questions about me, my resources, or my blog – please reach out! I love connecting with other educators from around the world!
